

Ananya Goel Bio Statement

Ananya Goel completed her B.A. in Art History and Studio Art at Pomona College in 2024 (Phi Beta Kappa). She won the Louisa Moseley Senior Thesis Prize in Art History and the Louisa Moseley Fine Arts Prize in Studio Art for her thesis work in each of her respective majors. She worked as a summer intern at the Whitney Museum of American Art and as a curatorial intern at the Benton Museum of Art at Pomona College, where she co-curated the Tracing the Edge exhibition in 2023. Currently, she is the research assistant for Stanford Digital Architecture in the Department of Art and Art History at Stanford University. She will matriculate at the Williams Graduate Program in the History of Art in the fall of 2025.